DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claim 3 recites the broad recitation slope having between 4 and 12 degrees, and the claim also recites slope equal to 8 degrees which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Art Unit: 3711

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hull et al. (USPN 5485999).

Regarding claim 1, Hull et al. discloses a golf club head comprising a bottom face having a periphery with an arc-shaped face wherein the bottom face of the golf club head has a center formed with a receiving recess receiving an elastic bushing made of rubber having a determined slope of 90° and having a width slightly greater than the diameter of the golf ball (See Figures 4-6 and Paragraph bridging columns 2 and 3).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hull et al. (USPN 5485999) in view of Ballmer (USPN 3556532).

Regarding claim 2, Hull et al. discloses one hole communicating with the recess, but does not disclose a plurality of holes. Ballmer disclose a club head wherein Ballmer notes that a plurality of holes may be added to reduce the weight of the club head (See Column 2, lines 51 through 62). One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to incorporate a plurality of holes to the club head of Hull et al., as taught by Ballmer, in order to reduce the weight of the club head.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hull et al. (USPN 5485999).

Regarding claim 3, Applicant does not disclose why a slope of 4 to 12 degrees is critical to attain the invention. Therefore, one having ordinary skill in the art would have found such to be an obvious matter of design choice. The slope of Hull et al. would perform equally as well because it facilitates the club head receiving a golf ball.
